Waveland takes bids on new police station

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen took bids Wednesday night in preparation for the construction of a new police station.

The board received eight bids on the metal building that will house the station and one bid each on electrical and plumbing work.

All of the bids were taken under advisement until the board can determine whether they meet the advertised specifications.

One bid on a computer for the station was also opened and taken under advisement.

Also on Wednesday, the board approved a recommendation by the city's planning and zoning commission, granting Mike Perniciaro a zoning change from residential to commercial for his property on Faith Street.

According to Barbara Rappold, a former city zoning official who is now an alderman, the zoning board originally approved the property for rezoning in 1982 when the lots in question were owned by Jimmy Perniciaro, but the records of final approval by the board of aldermen have been lost.

The board also approved a zoning board recommendation requesting that the city's zoning map and ordinances be updated.

The present map shows the Perniciaro property as being under a residential zoning, contributing to controversy over whether the property had actually been rezoned in 1982.

In other business, the board formally entered a letter from President Ronald Reagan into its minutes. The letter thanks city officials for making Reagan an honorary citizen of Waveland.

The aldermen also formally acknowledged receipt of an invitation to the annual Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Christmas tree lighting ceremony on Dec. 2.

The board meets again on Dec. 4.

Tenants help revise civic center rules

BY DENA BISNETTE

Problems in regulating the use of the recently renovated Waveland Civic Center have been worked out and a final contract for its patrons will be completed by next week.

Several representatives of groups using the civic center on a regular basis met with Waveland Alderman Bob Hubbard, City Clerk Arcelyn Dastugue and Mayor John Longo Jr. Wednesday in an effort to correct deficiencies in the civic center regulations the city adopted earlier this month.

Some difficulties with building security have also been reported, said Hubbard, who with Dastugue is in charge of arranging for Waveland residents to use the center.

Although the board of aldermen had decided at a recent meeting to increase the security of the building by installing outside lighting and repairing windows, Hubbard reported that he has received a few reports about unlocked side doors and windows.

He has also discovered that a city employee who checks on the building was never issued a key and has been getting in without one.

Complaints about the regulations for the use of the center mostly concerned keys and smoking.

Keys to the outside locks are kept at the police station and must be checked out and returned after the center is used. Keys to inside locks, such as rooms used by regular civic center tenants for group meetings, are to be kept by an individual selected by the group.

Duplicates of keys to individual rooms should also be kept at the police station in case of fire.

Smoking, originally restricted to restrooms, will be permitted in individual meeting rooms.

One additional rule was added and prohibits the serving of alcohol to minors at any function in the center.

The original requirement for a $200 deposit, with $100 to be deducted for failure by an organization or individual to "clean the center after use," was not changed.

The revisions will be written into the rules and copies will be issued to anyone using the center.

Twice the state average

Hancock County farmer reports high crop yield

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

While many Hancock County soybean farmers have reported crop yield above the state average of 28 bushels per acre, Al Wittorf of the Leetown Community reported a yield of nearly double the state average.

Wittorf's crop of 51 bushels per acre is outstanding because of the yield, but mainly it is outstanding because the yield was recorded on no-till beans.

No-till beans actually means that there is only minimum tillage of the beans, said Hancock County Agent Lee Taylor.

There are both advantages and disadvantages in using the no-till process, but in Wittorf's case there were definitely more advantages.

"The main advantage (in using the no-till method) is it saves the soil," Wittorf said.

Wittorf said he and his son Mark look for ways to save the soil because some of land that they farm erodes easily.

Another big factor is the conservation of soil moisture, Taylor added.

"Using the no-till method of farming, there is very little soil disturbance," Taylor said, "the soil stays compacted and this cuts down on the soil erosion and helps retain soil moisture."

Taylor said in addition to the soil-saving advantages of using the no-till method, it can also save the farmer money because it reduces the number of trips over the field the farmer has to make.

"The only drawbacks to the no-till method is that the farmer must have good herbicide program or the yield can be low because of the high weed growth," he said.

For good weed control while using the no-till method of farming, the usual practice is to use a pre-emersion herbicide and followup with one herbicide dispersion over the tops of the young soybean plants.

Wittorf said he used several pre-emersion herbicides and never did get around to going over the top.

"This has been a crazy year for planting because of the weather," Wittorf said.

He said that this past spring was the driest he remembers in over 40 years, with hardly no rain at all from Christmas until late June.

"According to experts, the beans are supposed to be in the ground and forgotten by June 15," Wittorf said, "but we didn't get our planted until June 23."

The yield on Wittorf's crop proves that it was advisable for him to plant past even the late date for bean planting.

Wittorf and his son farm approximately 500 acres and about 50 percent of that amount is used for growing soybeans.

Of that 250 acres Wittorf said the no-till method was utilized on about 20 percent or 50 acres.

Overall the average yield per acre for Wittorf's beans is 35 bushels per acre, a figure still substantially higher than the state average.

This year was Wittorf's second year to use the no-till method. Last year the yield per acre on his no-till beans was approximately 34.

Wittorf said that next year he plans to utilize the no-till method on a larger number of acres.

For planting the no-till beans, Wittorf said he used a sod-seeder.

"I don't recommend that anyone go out and buy one to use for planting, but that is what we had to use," he said.

Wittorf used for seed both the Coker 237 and 488.

On the remaining acreage Wittorf farms, he plants about 25 percent corn and the same percentage of sorghum.

Wittorf said grain sorghum was a crop that Mississippi farmers had not grown very much.

The humidity, especially here in the coastal counties, causes the grain to mildew before it can be harvested, Wittorf said.

"But now the grain heads open up more and I think I will like growing it better than growing corn," he said.

Overall Wittorf said this year had been better than the past three years, which had been real bad

DISCUSSION—Hancock County farmer Al Wittorf, left, and County Agent Lee Taylor discuss the no-till method of farming Wittorf used to farm about 50 acres this year. This method was particularly successful for Wittorf who reported a high yield from the no-till acres. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Correction

The story on the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission in the November 15 edition of The Sea Coast Echo erroneously stated that the termination of a contract with Gulf Cities Laboratories must be approved by the board of supervisors.

According to James DeBlanc, director of the commission, the termination requires commission approval only. Approval of the supervisors is not required because the decision deals with professional services costing less than $10,000.

The Echo apologizes for the error.

MPC donates energy assistance money

With winter approaching, Mississippi Power Company is offering several programs that can help customers who may have difficulty paying their electric bills.

"The increased use of electricity brought on by cold weather may make it heard for some of our customers to pay their electric bills," said Joe Corley, Mississippi Power Company's Consumer Affairs Manager. "We want to help these customers avoid disconnections."

In January 1985, the Gulfport-based utility will donate $25,000 to the American Red Cross to provide energy assistance for the utility's elderly customers who are incapable of caring for themselves and are on fixed incomes.

The donation will be available through American Red Cross offices in southeast Mississippi to qualifying Mississippi Power Company customers.

"This money will be for our customers who are facing extreme hardships and have no other means of assistance," Corley said.

Last winter Mississippi Power Company made a similar donation of $25,000 to the American Red Cross and more than 375 customers received energy assistance.

"We saw there was a real need for this type of assistance, so we decided to continue the program in 1985," Corley said.

The American Red Cross is responsible for taking applications, determining who qualifies and how much assistance is granted. Qualifying customers may receive a maximum donation of $100.

"Mississippi Power Company's contribution will provide financial assistance to some of their customers who are really in need," said Thelma Kergosin, Executive Secretary, Hancock County Chapter of the American Red Cross. "That's why we're glad to administer this program in our area again this winter."

Herbicide spraying helps produce desirable ground cover for wildlife

Herbicide spray programs for rights-of-way help produce a more desirable ground cover for wildlife says Bob Occhi of Coast Electric Power Association.

"Herbicide spray programs encourage a profile of low-growing shrubs and grasses along utility right-of-way (ROW)," states Occhi.

"This type of vegetative profile is an ideal habitat for rabbits, deer, turkey and other species common to our area," he continued, citing one 20-year study that showed brackenfern, sweetfern, teaberry, blackberry, witchhazel and other desirable species began growing profusely on utility ROWs after undesirable brush was eliminated.

The study also showed wildlife populations increased as a result of the improved food, nesting cover and protection against natural enemies and weather.

Occhi is manager of Operations and Engineering for Coast Electric and has been designing spray programs for the past four years for the cooperative's service areas in Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River counties.

He notes that while wildlife benefits from herbicide programs, consumers are the principle beneficiaries.

"Trees and other shrubs become good electrical conductors when they grow into or are blown into electrical lines," commented Occhi. "This overgrowth is the most frequent cause of power failures and outages," he continued.

The alternative to a herbicide program is vegetation removal by mechanical or manual labor. According to Occhi, while this method is preferable in some areas, like near residential property or water reservoirs, ground spray programs have several important advantages including economics, environmental and safety.

Vegetation management specialists state regrowth in manually-cleared areas have to be removed every two to three years. While an area cleared with herbicides may need retreatment only every five to nine years.

The economic advantages, according to Occhi, show manual clearing programs are two to three times more expensive than herbicide spray programs. "Another important consideration is safety—safety to service personnel and the consumer," adds Occhi.

"With hand clearing, service personnel are exposed to possible personal injury from chain saws, brush axes and powered chippers. With the spray program, these dangers are eliminated," he continued.

Herbicides are often the subject of criticism and speculation. The Environmental Protection Agency, as well as the National Academy of Science, report that herbicides used in right-of-way clearing programs are no more toxic than caffeine, table salt or aspirin.

"None of the materials we use today have been found to cause cancer or have any long-term adverse environmental effects," emphasized Occhi.

"The biggest problem with spray programs is controlling drifts associated with ground applications," commented Occhi. "However, recent changes in the design of spray booms and nozzle placement have helped eliminate most of the drift problems," he added.

Coast Electric Power Association is licensed and certified by the state of Mississippi to perform herbicide spray programs.

Also, the following safety guidelines are routine for Coast Electric personnel applying herbicide treatments: spraying is postponed if wind velocity exceeds 10 mph; or when atmospheric conditions produce a weather inversion or air stagnation; or when there is predication of rain within a few hours of application.

No one is more concerned about safety than we are at Coast Electric," stated Occhi. "Vegetation management is an important part of our business in providing continuous electric service, and we believe in quality service for our members," he continued.

AMERICAN INDIANS

A new documentary, "The New Capitalists: Economics in Indian Country," examines the growing economic independence for American Indians, including a segment about the Choctaws in Philadelphia, at 9 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 4, on Mississippi ETV.

Narrated by Eric Sevareid, the film documents the remarkable development of business enterprises on Indian reservations across the United States. The crew traveled to 20 reservations across the United States for the making of the film.

Though many tribes were once entirely dependent, isolated and poor, today they are building thriving businesses and prosperous communities in what has been described as a quantum leap into the 20th century industrial world.

From Alaska to the Everglades, Indians are participating in the American free enterprise system, the film reports: lumber mills, salmon canneries, industrial parks, cattle cooperatives, recreational resorts, expansive agricultural developments and electronic plants.

Twenty-five individuals completed computer workshops and received COMPASS user cards enabling them to use the library system's computers.

COMPASS project members used 91 computer programs during the month. The most popular programs during October were English Achievement, Mastertype, and Word Attack.

"What's Claude doing?" by Dick Gackenbach will also be read. The program will conclude with the motion picture film, "A boy, a dog and a frog."

Mental Health Advisory group tours installations

The Hancock County Advisory Committee to the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center used their October 30 meeting to tour various mental health and mental retardation offices operated by the Center in Harrison County.

The first stop was the Live Oaks Halfway House, a residential treatment facility for alcoholics. The committee members ate lunch there and Live Oaks Director, Richard Williams, led a tour of the facility.

The Committee then visited Gulf Coast Industries, a work activities program for developmentally delayed adults. Manager Audrey Ladner conducted a tour and answered questions.

The final stop was the main office of the Mental Health Center in Gulfport.

The Hancock Advisory Committee is made up of persons interested in mental health issues. They serve as a link between the Mental Health Center and the community.

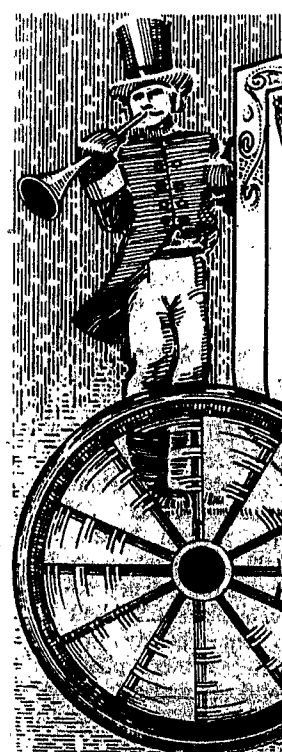

Mental health services in Hancock County consist of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center's regular counseling service and Hancock Industries work activity program. For more information, please call 467-0183 or 863-1132.

Quotables by CUEVAS

Waveland Mayor John Longo was all smiles Wednesday night when he presented to the council a letter he received from The White House.

The letter was from President Ronald Reagan in response to Waveland's officials making him an honorary citizen during his recent campaign visit to the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Mayor Longo tried to deliver the certificate himself to President Reagan, but due to the mob of people trying to talk to him, Longo had U.S. Congressman Trent Lott make the delivery.

We know Mayor Longo will cherish the letter for many years to come.

Many of you saw in Thursday's Echo where the salary of Bay St. Louis mayor and councilmen will be increased effective July, 1985.

We ran across a copy of a letter written by former Bay St. Louis Mayor R. W. Webb when he was seeking re-election.

Mayor Webb stated in his letter... "Its salary is less than $1 per day; it carries with it no expense account; nor has it a fund for 'incidentals'...."

The year was 1922 that Mayor Webb was seeking re-election.

We have come a very long way since that campaign letter was written and the value of a dollar has doubled many times.

We feel an education program on drugs for sixth grader student in Hancock, Harrison and Stone counties initiated by District Attorney Cono Carrana is very good.

Carrana made the announcement recently at a meeting of the Hancock-Harrison Legal Secretaries that the drug education program would begin in December.

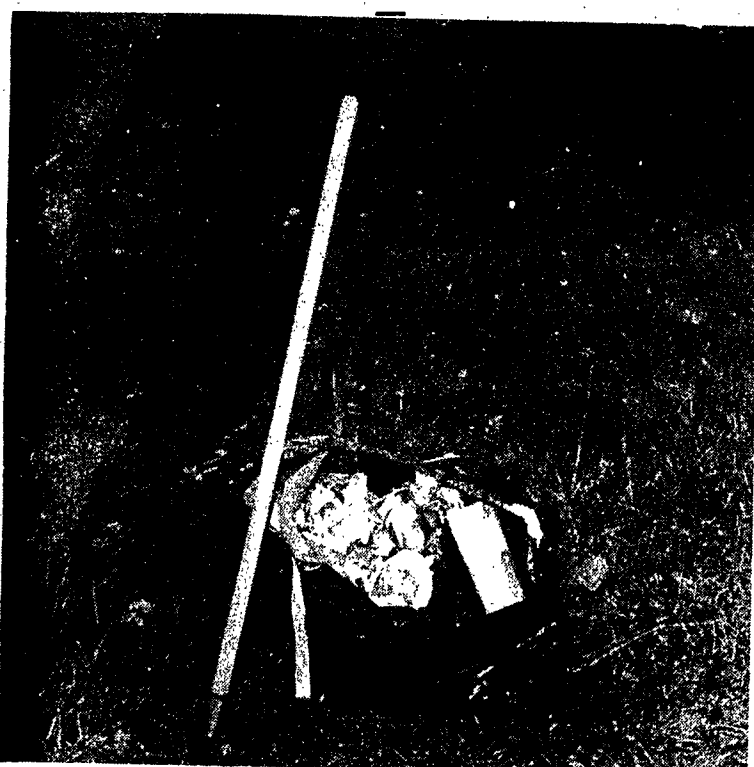

Drugs and crime go hand and hand, as Carrana said, 85 percent of crime is committed under the influence of drugs.

Just think, our longtime friend Carl Smith will celebrate his 98th birthday Monday.

Smith is well known, and can be remembered by many for riding his tricycle in Bay St. Louis.

It must be great to be 98-years-old and still drive your car to such places as Rotary club meetings, church and to do your own shopping.

Happy birthday Mr. Carl, we wish you many, many more.

By Dorothy A. Overall
Public Information Officer
Biloxi Branch Office

Q: I'm a small business owner and I have found shoplifting eating away at my profit margin. Do you have any suggestions for reducing this problem?

A: Shoplifting has become a major problem for many small businesses. There is a retail theft committed every five seconds in this country. These thefts cost each American over $150 a year.

How can you deter shoplifting? It's easy. Educate your employees. Train your sales help to be alert to the shoplifter's early warning signals. In clothing stores employees should keep a careful count of the number of items carried into and out of dressing rooms.

Employees should be alert to groups of shoppers who enter the store together, then break up and go into different directions. Sales people should watch for customers who linger in one area, wander aimlessly through the store and attempt to monopolize a salesperson's time.

Plan your store layout with deterrence in mind. Maintain adequate lighting in all areas of the store. Keep display cases and merchandise at the level of the counter. Keep small items of high value behind a counter or in a locked case.

Attach noisy alarms to unlocked exits. Close and block off unused checkout aisles.

Consider using protective personnel and equipment. Protective personnel may not be cheap, but shoplifting may be costlier. Some of the most widely-used devices are two-way mirrors, peep-holes, closed circuit television, convex wall mirrors and detectives posing as customers. Uniformed guards are powerful visual deterrents to the shoplifter.

There are several ways to identify merchandise as being legitimately paid for. One is to instruct cashiers to staple receipts to the outside of the packages. Electronic tags may be attached to soft articles such as clothing.

Ticket-switching can be discouraged through the use of tamper-proof gummed labels, hard-to-break plastic string, multiple price tickets concealed on items or special staple or punch patterns on price tags. Price labels marked by rubber stamps or pricing machines are better than pencilled or felt-marked price tags.

If you or your firm would like additional information concerning shoplifting, contact your local SBA office at 111 Fred Haise Boulevard, Biloxi, and ask for Management Aids publication number 3.006 entitled "Reducing Shoplifting Losses."

Society to Prevent Blindness reports dead battery winter's greatest hazard whenever working around or jump-starting a car battery.

"The best way to reduce the risk of a dead battery is to make sure it's in good working condition," Cushing comments. The following are some suggestions from the Society that motorists can use to assure their car battery's peak performance:

—Water level. Water lost through evaporation overcharging should be replaced.

—Corrosion. Inspect battery terminals on a regular basis and clean as needed. Any corrosion on terminals should be removed with a cleaning solution of water and ammonia or baking soda. Clean terminals can be coated with petroleum jelly after attaching cable terminals to battery. Replace any severely corroded terminals.

—Charge. The charging system should be checked annually—particularly before cold weather season.

—Manufacturer's instructions on batteries and in car's operating manual should be followed.

Should jump-starting a dead battery be necessary, the Society recommends:

Be sure vent caps are tight and level...damp cloth, if available, is placed over the vent caps...vehicles are not touching...both electrical systems are the same voltage.

Do not Jump-Start if Fluid is Frozen!

Attaching the Cables (Do in order listed):

1. Clamp one jumper cable to positive (+) terminal discharged battery wired to starter or solenoid. Do not allow positive cable clamps to touch any metal other than battery terminals.

2. Connect other end of positive (+) cable to positive (+) terminal of booster battery.

3. Connect one end of the second cable (Negative (-)) to the other terminal (negative (-)) of booster battery.

4. Make final connection on engine block of stalled engine (not to negative post) away from battery, carburetor, fuel line, any tubing or moving parts.

5. Stand back from both vehicles. Start car with good battery—then start the disabled car.

6. Remove cables in reverse order of connections beginning by first removing cable from engine block or metallic ground.

Even maintenance free batteries pose some of the explosive potential of their non-sealed battery counterparts, the Society cautions. Always wear safety goggles when performing any of these maintenance or jump-start tasks.

The Society has the jump-start procedures listed on a bright yellow vinyl sticker. For a copy, send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped, business-sized envelope to: National Society to Prevent Blindness, Mississippi Affiliate, 115 Broadmoor Drive, Jackson, Miss.

Founded in 1906, the Society is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through a comprehensive program of community services, public and professional education and research.

November 18, 1984
Dear Editor:

I would like to express my utmost appreciation to the entire staff of Hancock General Hospital, Dr. Sidney Chevis and all else involved with my recent stay at Hancock General Hospital.

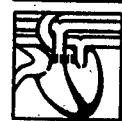

I was treated with professional courtesy and consideration with consistency.

I feel, as I have experienced, the quality of dedication of those mentioned indicates their standards and attitudes have generated an atmosphere of security in the health system of our city and county.

It's nice to know we have these people at Hancock General Hospital whom "we can trust" and depend on to help us with our needs.

Heart Answers

WHAT IS A HEART ATTACK?

A heart attack is the death of a portion of heart muscle that may result in disability or death, depending on how much of the heart is damaged. It occurs when an obstruction in one of the coronary arteries prevents the blood from supplying oxygen to the heart muscle. Heart attack symptoms may include chest pain, nausea and shortness of breath. The risk of heart attack can be reduced by treating high blood pressure, avoiding cigarette smoking, observing a low cholesterol diet and maintaining normal body weight.

Special Governor's aid offered for heating costs to low-income households

Eligible low-income households with elderly or handicapped persons again can receive monetary assistance to help offset winter heating costs through the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), according to the Governor's Office of Energy and Community Services (GOECS).

Beginning Dec. 1, families certified eligible can receive one-time payments of $100 to $240 which can legally be cashed only through the energy vendors declared on their applications.

Mississippi received approximately $18,300,000 from a federal Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Block Grant to fund this year's LIHEAP activities, which include a winter heating and summer cooling assistance program, a low-income weatherization program, an emergency intervention program and an energy conservation education program.

All applicants must meet certain requirements: have income equal to or less than 125 percent of the OMB poverty income guidelines; be responsible for cost of energy; have proof of income for everyone in household; and an energy bill showing utility responsibility in their name.

A single household, for example, could have no more than $6,225 income to qualify. A family of four could have no more than $12,750.

Persons wishing to apply for LIHEAP assistance should contact the local community action agency in their area to make appointments. Homebound persons who cannot go to an office to apply, should contact their local agency by telephone, and arrangements will be made to either have an application taken in their homes or assist someone else in filing the application for the homebound persons.

Approximately 84,000 low-income Mississippi households were aided through LIHEAP assistance last year.

Additional information on LIHEAP may be obtained by calling the Governor's Office of Energy and Community Services at 354-6099 or 961-4740 or the Governor's Service Line at 961-4042 in the Jackson area or toll-free, 1-800-222-7622.

Medical Association offers tips on toy selections

(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper.)

Santa Claus is coming soon. Children everywhere are waiting with eager anticipation to see the toys old St. Nick will leave under the tree.

Chances are that your youngsters will open their gifts Christmas morning and have a great time getting acquainted with their new toys. But in all too many households the toys themselves will dim the happy Christmas season by causing accidents and injuries.

The Mississippi State Medical Association offers some simple tips for selecting toys that will help insure a completely happy Christmas. —Beware of small toys that can be swallowed, flammable toys, and toys with rough or sharp edges.

—All electric toys should be safe. Look for the UL (Underwriters Laboratory) label on the cord and on the toy itself.

—Avoid toys made of lead or colored with lead-based paints. You're unlikely to encounter these today, as the dangers of lead poisoning are now well known. But it's wise to be sure.

—Baby's toys should be too large to put in the mouth, washable, lightweight, and non-brittle.

—Eye injuries are a particular hazard from some Christmas toys. Sling shots, air rifles, archery sets and even the spring-action toy pistols that propel sticks capped with rubber cups have caused injuries.

LEAVES USEFUL AS FERTILIZER

Don't burn those leaves. They're valuable fertilizer. This advice is offered by the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District.

If you're planning a garden next spring, right now is the time to get ready for it. The local district urges people with leaves to consider compost piles right in their own yard. It's a simple process. All you need are leaves and some chicken wire.

The wire is used to make an enclosure, usually round in shape. Place fallen leaves inside the wire. When your first layer is one foot thick, sprinkle three cups of commercial fertilizer per bushel of leaves. This helps speed decay.

In Mississippi, with its generally acid soil, it's a good idea to add one cup of agricultural limestone to each bushel of organic mixture. If the compost pile is to be used for azaleas or camellias, omit the ag-lime.

After adding fertilizer and lime to the leaves, wet the entire mixture.

In addition, keep the top of the leaves flat or concave so rain will soak in. If the heap seems to be getting too little aeration or looks too dry, you may need to turn the leaves from time to time.

After the first foot of leaves has been treated, the process can be repeated until the pile reaches the top of the chicken wire enclosure.

Leaves are not the only suitable material. You may also add grass clippings, pine straw, stems and stalks from your garden and even vegetable hulls or corn cobs. The main thing is not to waste this natural fertilizer.

For more information on composting, call or come by the Soil Conservation Service office and ask for a free publication entitled, "Mulches For Your Garden." Phone 255-3225.

VFW scriptwriting theme announced

"My Pledge to America" is the theme for the annual Voice of Democracy Broadcast Scriptwriting contest, according to Veterans of Foreign Wars District I Commander Allie Moreau and Ladies Auxiliary.

This year's theme coincides with National VFW Commander-in-Chief Billy Ray Cameron's theme of "First-Serving America" and National President of the Ladies Auxiliary Glennetta Vogelsang's theme "Guardians of Liberty."

Sherman Ytz of VFW Post 6731, North Bay, and Lorraine Santo of the Ladies Auxiliary of VFW Post 3937 are District I chairpersons this year.

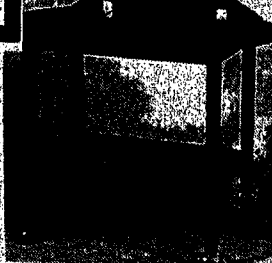

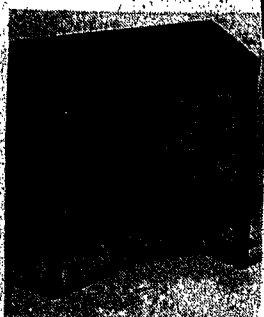

This program gives high school students in the 10th through 12th grades the opportunity to research and express patriotic ideas that develop appreciation for this country's heritage.

For further information contact Mrs. Santo at 832-3423.

Three Bay residents receive Bronze Star

Nineteen former airmen were awarded the Bronze Star on Nov. 17 at Keesler Air Force Base 42 years after they were taken prisoner by the Japanese and endured the Bataan Death March.

Those receiving a Bronze Star from Bay St. Louis were: Joseph C. Baxter, Albert A. Katool, and Sidney G. Snow.

The Air Force began last year honoring the members of the U.S. Army Air Corps' 27th Bombardment Group, organized in 1940 at Barksdale AFB, La.

The 1,400 airmen were stranded without aircraft and equipment in the Philippines in 1941 and became known as the "Battling Bastards of Bataan" when they and other troops held back the Japanese for a year as the United States recovered from the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

Only about 300 of the 1,400 airmen who were forced to surrender and were held prisoner for more than three years were still alive when the war ended in 1945.

The awardees, their spouses and guests were hosted at a brunch on base preceding a center parade and the medal presentations. They were also taken on a tour of the center following the parade and award ceremony.

Others honored in addition to Baxter, Katool and Snow were: James A. Caire and Cecil D. Heflin from Biloxi; Allen D. Randall, Gulfport; James D. Gautier Jr., Ocean Springs; James K. Bateman, Liberty; William M. Hammons, Greenville; Sam C. Johnson, Mendenhall; Harry R. Linch, Louisville; Charles H. Thornton, Crystal Springs; Alvin L. Wallace, Georgetown; James F. Drake, Mobile, Ala.; Erwin R. Johnson, New Orleans, La.; Gaston J. Rabalais, Metairie, La.; Hugh E. Cutrer Jr. and Claude P. Daniel, both from Bogalusa, La.; and George V. Marquez, Harahan, La.

Local cable TV has new stations

The USA Network and Music Television (MTV) will form part of the expanded basic service soon to be offered by Essex Cable TV, according to Jake Jacob, local manager.

Other immediate 'Super Basic' channels are: The Weather Channel, Nashville and Lifetime. WXXV-TV, Channel 25, Gulfport will be added in January 1985, as soon as it comes on the air.

Delay experienced in receiving some technical parts has set the local cable television company back in airing its new package but this is expected to be remedied in the very near future.

"Not only are we adding channels but we are also bringing stereo sound to Nashville and MTV."

"This equipment has arrived and when we do go on line it will be in full operation."

On pricing Jacob allowed the new tiers would be a little complex and take "some getting to know."

In addition to the Super Basic channels, Cinemax is joining Home Box Office as a second pay tier, giving more variety to the movie viewer.

Coincidentally, Home Box Office has hiked its rates to all cable companies resulting in Essex having to pass down the cost, an item somewhat softened by a bargain rate for subscribers taking both pays.

The only immediate price increase will be limited to those subscribers having HBO.

"Effective with the November billing, HBO bills will increase by $1. Actually, with the tax, this will be $1.06, the first cost increase for this service since February 1980."

"Although increased HBO costs have been experienced by the cable company, on a periodic basis, these have been absorbed and not passed down," Jacob said, "but this time it is necessary to spread the hike."

"Naturally we are doing everything we can to hold the line subscriber costs, an item reflected in our new rate structure for the Super Basic and Pay Tier Services."

Jacob explained the new rates as follows: for present subscribers wishing to retain existing basic service—no change in rate ($9.50 per month); HBO—increased $1 to $10 per month.

• New customers—(No further, limited channel basic will be installed) super basic, $13.95—with remote converter control add $5;

• Home Box Office (HBO), $10 per month;

• Combination HBO and Cinemax, $18 per month;

• Extra outlets: first, $3, second and subsequent, $1.50 per month;

• Extra outlet descramblers, no charge;

• Extra outlet converters, manual—add $4.95, or remote—add $6.95.

Variations are: first remote converter to subscribers having two pay services, $2 extra; extra outlets for stereophonic sound, $1.50.

On the question of installation fees, Jacob allowed that once again advantage lay with the useage of a greater number of services.

"Installation of Super Basic to one or more outlets will cost $20."

"Super Basic plus one pay service installation will be at $10, while Super Basic plus two pay services will only cost $5. This is obviously to encourage the utilization of all tiers," the manager explained.

He said other, existing charges, remain unchanged, i.e.: adding outlets (at any other time than initial installation), service calls if problem is non-cable related, and relocations of outlets, all $10. Collection fee is set at $5.

All prices, less collection fee, are subject to a six-percent state sales tax.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

Ryegrass in Hancock County has really suffered from Blast disease over the past two weeks. Blast is caused by the fungus Piricularia grisea and is attacking ryegrass in Mississippi and Louisiana. Many phone calls have been received regarding this problem in the county.

Blast is usually seen as a dying back of young leaf tips and the development of brown or tan circular spots on leaves. Seeding ryegrass may be killed. On older plants there is usually only a spotting affect and little killing.

Severe symptoms can occur in seven to ten days after initial infection. Usually blast is more apt to cause problems in prolonged periods of relatively high temperatures accompanied by fog, rain or heavy dew. These type conditions are ideal for the fungus to grow and reproduce.

If you have large areas that die out from blast you should consider replanting these areas with wheat.

Wheat can be placed in the seed bed with a grain drill or a light disking before broadcasting seed would be essential. Wheat would provide a faster regrowth and faster grazing.

Practices that will help you avoid blast disease would include: (1) not planting too early, (2) not to apply high levels of fertilizer or high seeding rates.

There is no control of blast once it starts. If your grass is high enough, turn in the cows and graze it down. This will change the micro-environment and reduce the amount of the disease present.

If you have to reseed with ryegrass, wait until temperatures get cooler. High night time temperature also cause blast to spread.

If you need additional information call 467-5456.

TOO WET TO HARVEST—Mark Wittorf explains to his father, Hancock County farmer Al Wittorf that the ground is too wet to harvest. Wittorf said harvest of several fields has been delayed because of rain. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock) because of all the dry weather.

"But the weather hasn't been the best, because when it did rain, it was at the wrong time," he added.

The rain came much too late and delayed the harvest, he said.

In answer to the remark that he probably had the highest yields in the county, Wittorf said he couldn't say he had out-farmed everybody, but he was in the upper percent of farmers.

Health Care Week set

Donald W. Baxter, president of South Mississippi Home Health today invited Mississippi residents to help celebrate National Home Care Week.

Nov. 25-Dec. 1 has been proclaimed National Home Care Week by President Ronald Reagan, Congress and Governor Bill Allain.

During the week tribute will be given to the thousands of dedicated individuals throughout America whose efforts allow more than five million elderly, infirm, disabled or dying to receive skilled health and social services in the comfort and privacy of their own home.

"There is a movement in this country to find less expensive and more humane ways to provide health care to our growing elderly population, as well as to children and young people who are temporarily or chronically ill or disabled," Baxter said.

Lawmakers are finally discovering what we have known all along, home care supports the dignity and independence of our most vulnerable by keeping them out of hospitals and nursing homes for as long as possible, he said.

It keeps families together and offers a compassionate and low cost way to care for our loved ones, Baxter added.

"In an era of skyrocketing health care costs, home care offers an excellent alternative to institutional care both because it is less expensive and because it encourages the self reliance and cooperative effort upon which this nation is founded," he said.

Baxter went on to note that South Mississippi Home Health has been proudly serving the Bay St. Louis Area for 11 years. They provide Nursing Services, Physical Therapy, Speech Therapy, Medical Social Services, Occupational Therapy, Enterostomal Therapy and Home Health Aide Services.

The skate-a-thon will be Nov. 27 from 5 to 8 p.m. at Twin Pines Skating Rink in Waveland. This year's goal is $2,000. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

County unemployment rises

BY DENA BISNETTE

A seasonal jump in the number of people seeking jobs has combined with a decrease in the number of jobs available in winter to increase the county's unemployment rate.

Hancock County's unemployment rate jumped from 9.7 percent in September to 10.7 percent last month, according to statistics furnished by the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

The county's civilian labor force, which includes both the employed and those looking for jobs, increased by 140 people in October, totalling 10,070.

The 10,070-person labor force included 1,080 unemployed people in October and 8,990 employed people. The statistics for the previous month included 9,930 people in the labor force, 960 unemployed people and 8,970 employed people.

According to Ann Ladner of the Bay St. Louis MESC office, the availability of jobs, particularly those involving outdoor work such as construction, typically decreases in winter.

Some of that decrease is usually offset by pre-Christmas hiring of temporary workers by retail businesses.

This year, however, very few businesses are hiring extra Christmas help, Ladner said.

"There are more people looking for work around Christmas, but this year we aren't seeing a whole lot of them looking for second jobs. The people who have been coming into the office are just looking for jobs, period," she explained.

"Job placements have been down for at least the past two weeks. Hardly anyone is looking for employees right now."

"Usually we can at least place people in part-time or temporary employment around Christmas but we don't have much of that available either," Ladner added.

She said the number of people seeking to change jobs is also down. "People are holding on to jobs they have, whether they like them or not," Ladner commented.

She said the Bay St. Louis office placed 68 people in jobs last month. She expects placement rates to continue to be low until early in 1985.

Hancock County was one of 56 counties in Mississippi with an unemployment rate of more than 10 percent and one of 37 counties with increased unemployment during October.

The county rates a tenth of a percent below the state average, which was 10.6 last month.

The state high was in Kemper County, where unemployment rose to 24.3 percent and the state low was in Rankin County, where 5.1 percent was reported.

Higgins—Butsch

Tracey Lynn Butsch and Irving Thomas Higgins III were married in an afternoon Nuptial Mass October 13 in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. The Rev. Henry McInerney officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butsch Jr. of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thomas Higgins Jr., also of Bay St. Louis.

Decorating the sanctuary were arrangements of gladioli, roses and baby's breath and baskets of magnolias and roses.

Andre Arceneaux Sr. rendered readings from scripture while musical selections were provided by Mrs. Olive McKenna, organist, and Mrs. Lana Noonan, soloist. Songs included "Sunrise, Sunset," "Ave Maria," "More" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chantilly lace enhanced with venise lace appliques. The bodice featured a drop shoulder yoke edged with lace ruffles with tapered-lace sleeves. The full, bouffant skirt was trimmed with multi-tiers of baby ruffles and satin bows and extended to a semi-cathedral train. She wore a wreath of silk flowers with attached veil of illusion.

The bride carried a cascade of white silk roses centered with three magnolias and interspersed with satin ribbon, pearls and English ivy. Chantelle Bell of Bay St. Louis, aunt of the groom, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Jamie Butsch, sister of the bride, and Michelle Higgins and Melissa Burge, sisters of the groom, and Karen Ladner, all of Bay St. Louis, and Tiffany Brackvitch of Waveland.

Tiffany Hoda, cousin of the groom, was flower girl.

The honor attendant was attired in a formal antebellum style gown in rose, with off-the-shoulder styling, full sleeves and skirt and cascading ruffles at the hemline which extended from the waist. She wore white crocheted gloves and carried a single magnolia with baby's breath and ribbon and lace.

The bridesmaids wore identical dresses in burgundy, while the flower girl wore a miniature version in rose. They carried single stemmed magnolias decorated with baby's breath and streamers.

Albert Bell of Bay St. Louis, uncle of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Roger Burge, brother-in-law of the groom; Robert Butsch III, brother of the bride; Sean Arceneaux, cousin of the groom; Jerry Asher and Michael Fouasnon, uncle of the bride, all of Bay St. Louis.

Ushers were Andre Arceneaux, cousin of the groom; and Adam Butsch, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Butsch chose for her daughter's wedding a floor length iris crepe gown. The groom's mother wore a tea length gown of wine lace.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Bay St. Louis.

Assisting were tea girls Allison Miller, Melinda Miller, Kim Green and Denee Ray. They wore identical dresses in deep rose fashioned with full skirt and off-the-shoulder styling.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, the couple resides in Bay St. Louis.

Pre-nuptial parties
A surprise shower was hosted by Mrs. Chantell Bell, Karen Ladner and Melissa Burge in the home of Mrs. Diane Ladner.

The bride and her mother hosted a tea for the attendants.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the House of Catfish in Waveland on the eve of the wedding.

Local potter hosts exhibit for Friendship Oak DAR

An American flag displayed at the entrance of Florence Duffie's studio on Main Street in Bay St. Louis on Wednesday, Nov. 7, welcomed members and guests of the Friendship Oak Chapter National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution when they met to view an exhibit of pre-Colombian pottery and to hear a lecture on the influence of Indians on present-day American culture.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Phillip Davenport of Bay St. Louis, regent for the chapter, and Mrs. Harry Steed Walker Jr. of Diamondhead.

Throughout the home were attractive arrangements of pottery, basketry and carvings illustrating designs and craftsmanship of several Indian tribes including the Northwestern part of the United States, Mexico, Guatemala and Panama City. Many exquisitely fashioned molas were also on exhibit. Molos are folk art panels worked in reverse applique by women of the Cuna tribe of Panamanian Indians of the San Blas Islands.

Mrs. Duffie, attired in an authentic Cuna Indian costume consisting of a mola blouse, dark figured skirt and bright-red head scarf, first welcomed the group to a refreshment center where a table, decorated with a center arrangement of Indian corn and ornamental gourds, was laden with festive dishes served in colorful pottery designed and handcrafted by Mrs.

Duffie.

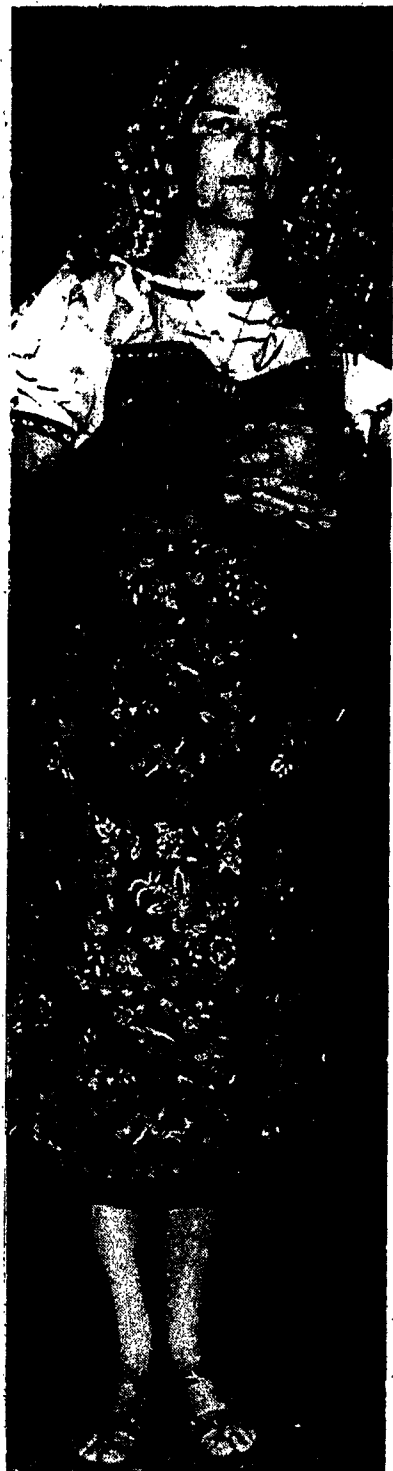

Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Bay St. Louis served as program chairman and presided at the punch service. In introducing the speaker, Mrs. Pilet said Mrs. Duffie was a native of Panama City, a naturalized citizen and has been recognized as a master potter in Bay St. Louis for four years.

Mrs. Davenport conducted rituals of the DAR prior to the program and the group heard a prayer for our government read. The prayer was felt appropriate and in connection with our National election. The petition included guidance for the administrative, congressional, and judiciary bodies, and closed with a plea that all of our citizens might become active in affairs of the government.

Guests were welcomed, including Miss Jennifer Scott of Long Beach, Mrs. T.H. McGregor of Kansas City, Kan., and Mrs. Elisa Chong of Panama City, Panama.

Mrs. Hazel Ehart of Long Beach was named chairman for donations of garments to be sent to the students of St. Mary's School for Indian girls. Mrs. Ruth Holley will chair the distribution of Christmas Gifts for Veteran patients.

The next meeting of the chapter is scheduled for Dec. 12 in the home of Mrs. E. George Cassis of Diamondhead. On that date at 1:30 p.m. a silent auction will be held prior to the 2 p.m. meeting.

Lavinghouse—Yockey

St. Paul Catholic Church in Pass Christian was the setting for the November 3 marriage of Shannon Theresa Yockey and James Edward Lavinghouse. The Reverends Charles Venus and John O'Brien co-celebrated at 10 a.m. Nuptial Mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Hal Ross Yockey of Pass Christian and the late Mr. Yockey. The groom's parents are Mrs. William Lavinghouse of Moss Point and the late Mr. Lavinghouse.

Music was provided by Tom Bourdin, organist, and JoAnn Yockey and Shelley Parker, vocalists.

Basket arrangements of white gladioli, carnations, mums and greenery decorated the sanctuary and satin ribbon bows and greenery marked the pews of the center aisle.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Ross Paul Yockey, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory peau-de-soie in an empire style. The modified bateau neckline, bodice and Elizabethan sleeves were appliqued with French Alencon lace. She wore a cameo at the neckline which belonged to her grandmother. Her camelot headpiece was covered with matching lace and held a fingertip veil of illusion.

She carried a silk cascade of candlelight roses, stephanotis baby's breath and ivy interspersed with satin picot ribbon.

Laura Lachin of Waveland was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Heather Burch of Shreveport, La. and Catherine Yockey of New Orleans, nieces of the bride.

They were identically attired in French blue taffeta gowns each with embroidered schiffli bodice, puffed sleeves and full gathered skirts with self-sash at the waistline. They carried single long-stemmed ivory silk roses.

Glynn Lajourne of Plaquemine, La., cousin of the groom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Ronald Lavinghouse of Biloxi and Douglas Lavinghouse of Moss Point, brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Yockey chose for her daughter's wedding a street length dress in a deep violet hue in sheath styling featuring softly draped shoulder panel with long tapered sleeves.

The groom's mother was attired in a deep teal dress with shirred bodice, long tapered sleeves and slim skirt.

On return from a wedding trip to Navarre Beach, Fla., the couple will reside in Gautier, Miss.

Diamondhead Garden Club

Members of the Diamondhead Garden Club enjoyed a trip to NASA-NSTL for their Nov. 14 meeting.

The president, Mrs. R. B. Boatright, held a brief business session and the Commercial Beautification chairman, Mrs. George Kollasch, announced the plaque had been given to the recently opened Sunflower Supermarket who had installed concrete tables and benches outside the building for patrons' convenience.

A member of the executive board, Mrs. Clarence A. Evans, reported on the three-day Deep South Region Energy Conference given at Gulf Park College which she recently attended.

"Using Plants for Energy Conservation" was the theme of the movie presented by Dr. Billy Wolverton, who is director of NASA's Environmental Systems Laboratory and a pioneer in the application of natural techniques for energy conservation. His waste water treatment methods, using the water hyacinth, is receiving world-wide acclaim. The film included pictures of his home which is a showplace of how plants can be used in the home to help control humidity and reduce toxins in the air.

After lunch at the NASA cafeteria, the group took a bus trip of the entire area, and the final event of the day was held in the auditorium of the Visitor's Center, where the group viewed an award-winning documentary, "The Oceans From Space," which was filmed by Tom Friedman, husband of one of the members.

ETV Brief

DOCTOR WHO

Caught in a perpetual time loop on Mississippi ETV, "Doctor Who" starring Tom Baker as the gallant gadfly from Gallifrey, will be rebroadcast again on Mississippi ETV at 10:30 p.m. weekdays, beginning Tuesday, Nov. 27.

Aired for the first time on Mississippi ETV beginning June 1, 1981, the science fiction series from the BBC has aired continuously since then, beginning with Baker's first adventure, "Robot," and continuing until his demise 172 half-hour episodes later in "Logopolis," only to be turned around and started again with "Robot."

"Doctor Who" movies starring Baker's successor Peter Davison as the Doctor continue to be telecast at 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Also, "Doctor Who" fans will be interested to know that a special one-hour documentary, "Doctor Who in America," will be telecast at 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 22, on Mississippi ETV. Clips from the series are interspersed among interviews with Tom Baker, fans, experts and production personnel.

"HANUKKAH"

"Hanukkah," Mississippi ETV's half-hour documentary hosted by Edward Asner, can be seen again this holiday season at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 4, and again at 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 9.

"Hanukkah" recounts the events more than 2,000 years ago that led to the celebration every year of the eight-day midwinter festival by Jews the world over.

Says Asner in the film, "Hanukkah, the Festival of Lights, the Festival of the Rededication of the Jewish temple...celebrated every year in December, Hanukkah recalls the bravery, tenacity and historical circumstance—some call it miracle—that permitted the ancient Israelites over 2,000 years ago to preserve their freedom and with it the spiritual source from which Judaism draws its meaning."

The program utilizes graphics, animation, dramatic presentation and the Hanukkah home religious service. Asner explores the historical basis for the holiday, and graphics from a variety of eras and artists allow the viewer to see the events through many different interpretations.

Hanukkah is a time of family unity, and the program uses the home service as the thread of continuity that links the historical exposition to modern practices and beliefs.
